The mission of the elementary and secondary schools of the Cross Plains ISD is to prepare all students to function effectively, successfully, and productively in our democratic society. This mission is grounded in the belief that all students can learn and can be successful in learning tasks if the teaching and learning experience are meaningful and appropriate. To this end, the campuses are committed to subscribing to the correlates of effective schools through their application in the daily operations at the campus and classroom levels.

The specific beliefs of the administration and faculty are as follows:

- * Clearly defined teaching and learning expectations should be communicated to students and parents.
- * Parents and teachers should be partners in the instructional process.
- * A well-developed curriculum is the basis for instructional focus.
- * Technology is an integral factor in the teaching/learning process.
